

Dr. Dog
Explains

Back to Nursery

A teacher might use a scanner on your forehead to check that you are not poorly.

It's time to go back to nursery.

We need to do some things to make sure that we don't catch coronavirus. When you get to nursery, you might need to queue and stand two metres apart from each other.

You won't be able to hug all your friends, but you can use words or expressions on your face, or you can try making signs with your hands!

Try things like this instead ...

You can still have fun and learn lots.

There might not be as many children in your class as you are used to.

Some Things to Practice

Try not to touch your face, nose, eyes or mouth.

Normally it's good to share, but for now you shouldn't share food, drinks, toys, pens or books.

Always cough into your elbow, or into a tissue and then throw it into the bin.

Keep washing your hands.

♪
Sing 'Happy Birthday' ♪ ♪ twice.

All these things will help to keep us safe at nursery.

Dr. Dog

Text © Professor James G. Logan BSc PhD FRES 2020

Illustrations, character and font © Lydia Monks 2020

